WINTER 2002 SALISBURY UNIVERSITY ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Career Advice from 'Alumni in the Classroom'

Alumni provided students "information they can't buy" about today's job market during "Alumni in the Classroom" week November 12-16, 2001.

For the past several years, the Office of Alumni Relations has coordinated an effort to bring alumni back to campus to talk about their career paths from Salisbury University to their present employment. This year 35 alumni in various positions throughout the mid-Atlantic shared the "do's and don't's" of getting to that first rung of the career ladder with over 800 students.

"This is one of the most important services the Alumni Association provides," said Roy S. Perdue, director of Alumni Relations. "We believe this direct interaction is extremely valuable for students, from the standpoint of learning what careers are available, as well as helping them realize if they plan their career paths carefully, they too can be hired in key positions in business and industry, educational systems and the not-for-profit sector."

Alumni covered topics such as:

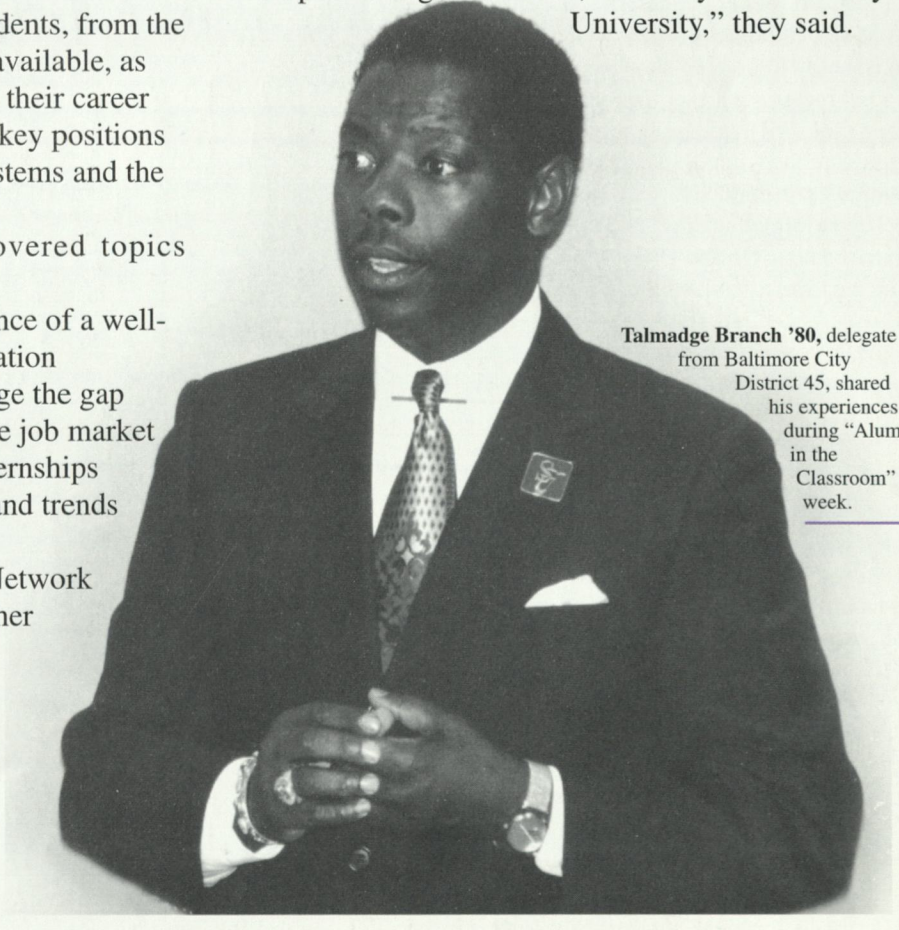
- the importance of a well-rounded education
- how to bridge the gap from SU to the job market
- value of internships
- career tips and trends
- the Work Information Network (WIN) and other career opportunities.

The Office of Career Services assists the Alumni Office by offering workshops where alumni offer interviewing tips or review student resumes.

Committee Co-chairs Cathy Evans Stitcher '82 and Dawn Bennett Robson '84, along with Dornell Woolford '88, arranged alumni to go into such classes as World Civilization, Psychology, Racism and Discrimination, Biology, Introduction to Business, Social Work, Finance, Multinational Business, Computer Programming and English Composition.

Faculty participation is key to the success of the week, added Perdue. "The Alumni Office is grateful to the faculty members who have embraced this program."

Students described the alumni visits as "awesome." "It helps us imagine a career, a life beyond Salisbury University," they said.



Talmadge Branch '80, delegate from Baltimore City District 45, shared his experiences during "Alumni in the Classroom" week.

Alumni Appreciation Award

Pam Winters Dolle, President Janet Dudley-Eshbach and Marshall W. Moore

Marshall W. Moore, who received his bachelor's degree in education from Salisbury in 1948 and an honorary doctorate of humane letters in 1988, was recognized at SU's December commencement with the prestigious Alumni Appreciation Award.

Marshall began his career in education, followed by 16 years in the business world, then moved into the banking and investment arena, retiring as senior vice president from Loyola Federal Savings Bank in Baltimore in 1988.

Education, especially at his Alma Mater, has always been his passion. He has served as president of the Alumni Association, chairman of the Salisbury University Board of Visitors, chairman of the Board of Trustees of Maryland State Universities and Colleges, and was a 1973 charter member of the Salisbury University Foundation, where he still serves as an active board member. He was inducted into the SU Athletics Hall of Fame in 1986. He received the first President's Club stewardship award in 1999 for his continuous support of Salisbury University for more than 50 years.

Marshall has received many citations from two mayors of Baltimore and three governors of Maryland for his dedication to public service and higher education. His wife, Ruth, and two of his three children, Clary and Marshall, are SU graduates.

Alumni Online Updates
www.salisbury.edu/alumni/

The first issue of SUpdate, a short e-newsletter outlining a few of the latest events on campus, was sent out in early January. Nearly 5,000 alumni who have registered their e-mail addresses with the Alumni Office received it. SUpdate is produced jointly by the offices of Public Relations, Publications and Alumni Relations, and will be published monthly. If you did not receive this e-newsletter and would like to subscribe, please send your e-mail address to the Alumni Office at alumni@salisbury.edu.

If your e-mail address and other information are in our Online Directory, please take the time to look at your information to make sure it's up to date. Alumni often try to locate some of their college friends, only to find out the information is no longer accurate.

You now have the ability to post and/or answer messages from other SU alumni through the NewsGroup link on the alumni home page. NewsGroup is very similar to an online bulletin board with five categories: athletics, leisure, networking, personal and social. It is password protected and available only to graduates of SU. Sign on and start chatting with other alumni.

Visit the SU Alumni Web site to browse through our online alumni Photo Album or register for the Work Information Network (WIN). From our home page, you can find a link to an interactive virtual campus tour, as well as many other hot links.

Greetings from the Alumni President

Dear Alumni,

I'd like to introduce myself as the new president of the SU Alumni Association. I graduated in 1976 with a major in elementary education. I married shortly after graduation and began working in my husband's family business, Dolle's Candyland in Ocean City, MD, where I am vice president. I was elected to the Alumni Association board of directors in 1997 and served as vice president last year.

Other officers who were elected at the annual meeting in October were Sara Wolff Lewis '98, vice president, and Dornell Woolford '88, secretary/treasurer. Six new members were elected to the board. You can read about them on the next page.

Your Alumni Association continues to move forward, providing a range of events and activities not only in Salisbury, but also in many other locations as well. Attendance at Homecoming, which was successfully combined with Family Weekend in 2001, grows each year. Alumni are becoming more engaged with the association and with the campus, serving on committees, working with the chapters or assisting in programs such as "Alumni in the Classroom."

I have several goals for the next two years, among them is a desire to see increased alumni involvement in all our activities. Working with the board, I hope to continue our efforts to have more alumni interaction with students and to enhance our student scholarships.

I hope to see you at one of the many alumni events planned for the coming year. Visit our Web site at www.salisbury.edu/alumni/ for a calendar. Feel free to call or e-mail the staff of the Office of Alumni Relations to suggest ideas/events/programs you think would interest alumni.

Thank you for the opportunity of representing you as president. The board and I are committed to serving you well.

Sincerely,

Pam Winters Dolle

Salisbury University FUND

www.salisbury.edu/univfund/

Why is donating to the Salisbury University Fund important? Unrestricted donations are used to help pay for unbudgeted opportunities and needs that occur throughout the year. Examples of such needs and opportunities range from capital projects to technology advancements to scholarships.

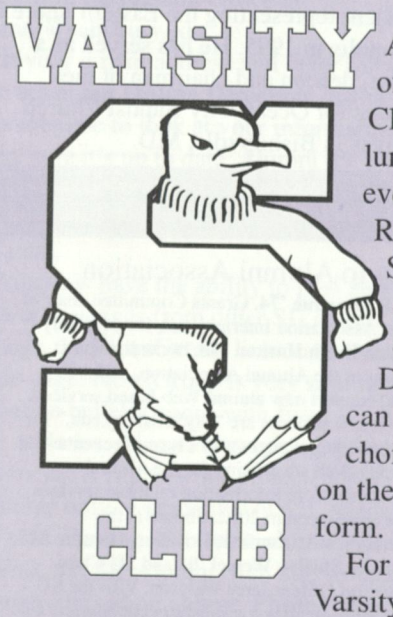
As always, donations with specific restrictions are utilized based on the donor's request. Deans, chairs and coaches utilize restricted donations to their schools, departments or teams for unbudgeted items on their "wish lists."

In addition, alumni contribute to specific campaigns. Currently alumni from the Seidel School of Education and Professional Studies are donating to a $1 million endowment challenge to create more teacher scholarships because of the nationwide shortage of teachers.

The 2001-2002 Salisbury University Fund Alumni Campaign has enjoyed a very successful first six months. Currently the number of alumni who have made donations is approximately 40 percent ahead of the same period last year. Alumni have made gifts via the Internet, fall phonathon and direct mail. If you have not yet made a gift, we hope you will consider making one prior to our fiscal year end, June 30, 2002. If you pledged in the phonathon, please remember to fulfill your commitment by the same date.

On behalf of all the students who will benefit from your generosity, thank you for continuing to make a difference at Salisbury University.

Varsity Club Hosts Special Events



Alumni, parents of athletes and friends of SU athletics attended several Varsity Club special events last fall. Sports luncheons were held in the Commons every Thursday during football season. Receptions were held at the Sea Gull Stadium and at the Maggs Center during day games. More special events are on tap for 2002.

Did you know Varsity Club membership can be designated to the SU team of your choice? Simply indicate your designation on the Varsity Club membership application form.

President's Club Supports Excellence

Excellence doesn't just happen—it's something that is achieved. At Salisbury University, excellence begins with an institutional commitment and extends through the provision of the very best resources. Ultimately it results in a University-wide focus on a student-centered environment.

President's Club gifts provide much-needed funds that allow Salisbury University to attract the brightest students, many of whom could not otherwise attend. They also help us recruit and retain the best faculty as well as provide critical resources for the Perdue, Seidel, Henson and Fulton schools. Significant annual support from donors through the President's Club enables SU faculty and students to set and achieve new goals.

Please consider joining my wife, Donna '65, and me and our fellow President's Club members as we strive to continue our proud 75-year tradition of serving our students and our community. Fall 2001 Sports Highlights

The final scoresheet for the fall 2001 sports season is clear evidence of another successful campaign for virtually all the Sea Gull squads. Combined, they yielded four teams with winning records, one NCAA Tournament berth, one Capital Athletic Conference (CAC) championship, three CAC runner-up finishes, two All-Americans, one coach of the year, two rookies of the year, and 36 all-conference honorees. A closer analysis, team by team:

The Salisbury University field hockey program, recognized as one of the elite among NCAA Division III schools, returned to the NCAA Tournament for the 17th time in 18 years while finishing with a 16-3 overall record in 2001. The Sea Gulls were the top ranked team in the NFHCA poll for six weeks during the regular season, and captured their seventh straight CAC title. The Gulls also added to their long list of All-Americans as senior midfielder Tara Webster received second team honors and junior forward Jill Cressor earned third team honors.

The men's soccer team completed the 2001 season with a 15-3-1 record, posting its fourth straight campaign with at least 15 wins. With 65 wins over the past four years, the 2001 seniors completed their careers as the winningest class in Sea Gull soccer history. Salisbury posted its 10th straight winning season in 2001, and concluded the year with a four-overtime classic in the CAC championship game. Four Gulls earned first team all-CAC honors in 2001, while two others were named to the second team. The Sea Gulls begin the 2002 season with a nine-game unbeaten streak.

The women's soccer team enjoyed another outstanding season in 2001, finishing with a 14-2-3 record under first-year Head Coach Jim Nestor '90. The Sea Gulls recorded a 10-game unbeaten streak during the year and, for the first time ever, finished with a perfect 7-0 record during the CAC's regular season. The Sea Gulls also set new team records with nine consecutive shutouts during the year and a 0.45 goals against average for the season. Four players earned all-conference honors, while the senior class finished with a 60-14-6 record over the past four years.

The volleyball team finished with a 21-11 record in 2001, the third time in five seasons under Head Coach Margie Knight that the Gulls have reached the 20-win plateau. Two players earned all-CAC honors, including senior outside hitter Kara Kowalski, who returned to the first team for the second straight season. The Sea Gulls have claimed two CAC championships and earned two NCAA Tournament appearances in the past four years.

The football team completed the 2001 season with a 4-6 record, including a heart-breaking 30-27 overtime loss in the season-finale, the Regents Cup Game played at historic RFK Stadium in Washington, D.C. Salisbury played a school-record three overtime games during the season, winning twice, and finished the year with 10 players earning all-Atlantic Central Football Conference honors. Freshman Milo Austin was named the ACFC's Rookie of the Year after finishing the season with a conference-leading six interceptions.

The men's cross country team concluded the 2001 season with second place finishes in both the Mason-Dixon Championship and the CAC Championship. The women's cross country team placed third in both events. Five Sea Gull men and three women earned all-CAC honors during the 2001 campaign.

Coaching Milestones

Head Coaches Gerry DiBartolo of the men's soccer team and Dawn Chamberlin of the field hockey team both recorded the 200th wins of their careers during the fall 2001 seasons. Additionally, Head Coach Margie Knight of the volleyball team registered her 100th collegiate victory.

Great Leaders, Lecturers And Performers

SU continues to attract top lecturers and performers—and last semester was no exception.

In September, singer, songwriter and civil rights activist Holly Near served as artist-in-residence, meeting with students and performing for the community.

In early October, Maryland Senate President Mike Miller addressed the campus on, "Public Service and Its Role in Serving the Community." Miller's presentation was sponsored by the SU's Institute for Public Affairs and Civic Engagement (PACE), building on its mission to expose students to real models of civic engagement.

Also in October, SU welcomed critically acclaimed singer/songwriter Melissa Ferrick. Ferrick emerged in 1994 as part of a group of new female "alternative" singer/songwriters.

Susan C. Keating took a break from her busy schedule as the president and chief executive officer of Allfirst Financial, Inc. and Allfirst Bank to be SU's Great Leader lecturer. With the Great Leader Lecture Series, the Perdue School of Business provides SU students with exposure to industry leaders.

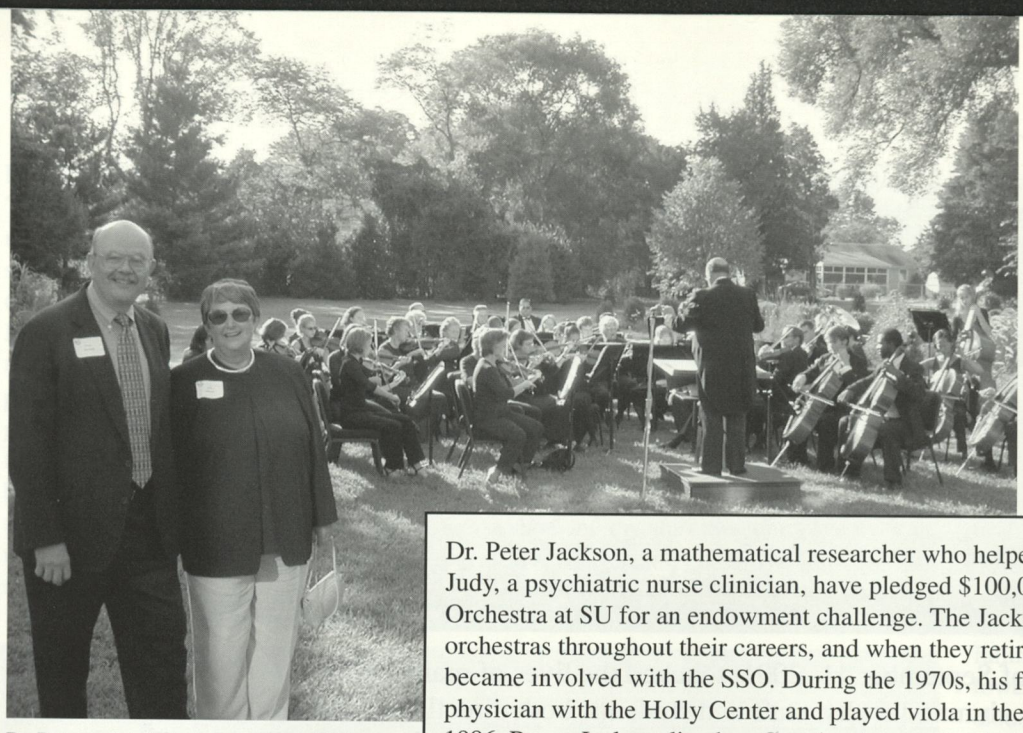
Rounding out the end of October, environmentalist Julia Butterfly Hill spoke about her experience spending two years atop a redwood she called "Luna," as a protest against the clear cutting of the ancient trees. In honor of Hill's visit and in hopes of creating awareness for the need to protect indigenous tree species on the Shore, SU named the oldest and largest tree on campus, a scarlet oak, "Luna Too."

For the fifth year in a row SU has placed in the U.S. News and World Report's Top 10 public regional universities in the North.

Leadership Center Opens

President Janet Dudley-Eshbach and alumnus J. Michael Scarborough '76 (center) "cut the ribbon" to open the one-of-a-kind Scarborough Leadership Center, an 8,000 square foot facility that brings leadership programs, academic honor societies and fraternities and sororities together under one roof. Scarborough, president and CEO of The Scarborough Group, a pioneer in the 401(k) advice industry, contributed $800,000 toward the construction of the facility.



Dr. Peter and Judy Jackson with the SSO.

Symphony Receives Endowment Challenge

Dr. Peter Jackson, a mathematical researcher who helped develop the Internet, and his wife Judy, a psychiatric nurse clinician, have pledged $100,000 to the Salisbury Symphony Orchestra at SU for an endowment challenge. The Jacksons have supported symphony orchestras throughout their careers, and when they retired to Salisbury they quickly became involved with the SSO. During the 1970s, his father, Dr. Roger Jackson, was a physician with the Holly Center and played viola in the SSO when it was established in 1986. Roger Jackson lived on Camden Avenue in what is now the Bellavance Honors Center. For more information on the Jackson Symphony Challenge, call 410-548-5587.

SU Stands United

Like everyone in the country, SU students were anxious to lend a hand in the wake of the September 11, 2001, tragedies. Students held donation drives and over 50 percent of those who showed up at a local blood bank to donate were SU students.

Kane Called To Ground Zero

SU Senior Tim Kane spent his summer dividing New York into grids locating nursing homes and critical care facilities for his internship with the New York Mayor's Office of Emergency Management. Following the tragedy of September 11, Kane was asked to return to New York and help with rescue and recovery efforts. Computer skills with satellite imagery and digital mapping that Kane learned as a geography major at SU made him a vital asset to rescue and recovery efforts.

Remembering September 11, 2001

The events of September 11, 2001, touched the lives of many Salisbury University alumni, faculty, staff and students, both directly and indirectly. Our hearts go out to the family and friends of Keith David McHeffey '93, an equity trader for Cantor Fitzgerald lost in the attack on One World Trade Center, and to all others affected by the tragedies and the aftermath. We also want to recognize all those who have volunteered unselfishly to help the unfortunate survivors of the attacks and their families.

Here are thoughts from some alumni who were personally involved in the events on September 11 and the weeks following.

The morning of September 11, I received a phone call from a friend of mine who worked directly across from the WTC. "So I was sitting here and I felt what I thought was an earthquake. I looked up and the top of Tower One of the WTC was on fire. A plane had crashed into it."

Later I ventured outside from my office in midtown and looked down Madison Avenue. The cloud of smoke in the air was huge and intense. It was quite a horrific sight. The smell came all the way to midtown and beyond. I cannot begin to imagine what it smelled like at Ground Zero.

That evening I answered the phone only to hear my very hysterical friend scream that a friend of ours had been working on United Flight 93 that went down over rural Pennsylvania. I could not believe Debbie was dead.

There are so many sad stories. The fire station down the block from me had flowers and candles all around to honor their seven dead members. The proportion of this tragedy is immense. It has affected everyone.

Rebecca Bandiere '79

I belong to the Civil Air Patrol in Florida, an auxiliary of the Air Force. On September 11 we were called upon to secure all the small non-towered airstrips in Florida. While most planes were still grounded, our squadron was able to help FEMA with damage assessment from the storm that went through. My assignment kept me very busy and served as a needed emotional outlet.

Patricia Ruth '71

My office is approximately 10 blocks from Ground Zero. I arrived at my office that Tuesday after the plane had crashed into the North Tower. While speaking to a friend on my cell phone, I witnessed the impact on the South Tower. After that, all hell broke loose. Police and firemen were telling everyone to run and run fast.

My company opened its doors to help any and everyone who needed it. It was mostly water, coffee and telephone service so that passersby could let their loved ones know they were okay.

My company immediately sent everyone home. But being the SU trooper that I am, I stayed. I was finally able to go home Sunday. For weeks the policemen and women came in for coffee, a nap, Internet access and even long distance calling to their homes. I warned my boss about my long distance bill on my authorization code. Eeeekk!

I must say I have never been as proud to be an American as I am today and will ever be. I now look at the police with different eyes. And although I've never lost the Eastern Shore "Hello" even to strangers, it means even more now in NYC where eye contact is actually given now. A little nod, a little awkward smile—it feels nice.

Edward Rowe '79

I have lived one block from the World Trade Center for the past 10 years. The morning of September 11, I was at work, six blocks from the WTC, when I heard on the radio that a plane had crashed into the North Tower. Thinking it was a commuter type plane, and since September 11 was primary election day in NYC, I decided to go to my voting precinct, across the street from WTC in the World Financial Center, before the scene got too out of hand. As I approached, I realized something was much worse than a commuter plane accident.

I looked up to see people jumping/falling out of the tower. Several seconds later, I heard the roar of a jet swiftly accelerating. I watched it fly right into the South Tower and disappear in a cloud of smoke. That instant I realized it was a terrorist attack.

Panic overwhelmed the crowd I was standing in. A stampede ensued and I lost my balance. When I was able to pick myself up I found that I was missing both a shoe and my shirt. Scanning West Street, I saw what seemed like over a hundred shoes strewn about. Other people had been knocked over as well. I helped a number of people up and heard the constant crying out of names as many people had gotten separated from their spouses, colleagues and children.

I walked home and called my ex-wife, who was at work in midtown but not aware of what had happened, to tell her to get to New Jersey and get our three kids out of school as soon as possible.

As I walked to the elevator to go back to my office, my building shook and the lights flickered. My instinct was to run down the stairs—FAST. When I got to the lobby a neighbor was screaming, "It's falling, it's falling." I looked toward the towers and all I could see was a black cloud of smoke heading toward my building. I headed west along the edge of the Hudson River. Looking to the north toward the marina in front of the WTC, all I could see was a large blackish/gray cloud heading toward me. Policemen were yelling to head south. Soon all of us were covered in gray ash and debris.

The cloud soon became the equivalent of a blinding snowstorm. I couldn't see anything or hear anyone. I continued south by feeling the park benches mounted parallel with the river. Then I thought I heard the sound of another jet engine accelerating. It was the remainder of the North Tower collapsing.

I decided to head over to my office. Entering my office building I saw people looking at me and gasping in disbelief. I was quite a sight. Back in my office I turned on the radio with no success. Access to the Internet still worked. At this point I heard what sounded like more jets accelerating and suddenly the sky outside turned darker than I had ever seen at night. It was completely pitch black. The South Tower had collapsed. It all seemed like a dream.

My home in NYC is in a disaster area. The hub of transportation, shopping and my gateway to the rest of the city are gone. Gone forever are several neighbors and a few colleagues. I am thankful to be alive.

The 2001 recipients were: Fulton School, Dr. Charles Cipolla; Henson School, Dr. John Molenda; Perdue School, Dr. Gerry DiBartolo; Seidel School, Dr. Geraldine Rossi.

Guidelines

Faculty Appreciation Award will recognize faculty:

Franklin P. Perdue '41 was named Maryland Grain Producers Association's Man of the Year for being a strong advocate for Maryland's grain industry.

Louis S. Seidel '50 has been inducted into the Harford County (MD) Public Schools Educator Hall of Fame. After a 37 1/2-year career as teacher and principal, Seidel retired in 1990 and said that he felt blessed by those with whom he was associated in the Harford schools. In retirement, Seidel continues his lifelong passion for boating and pursues interests in the study of history, particularly the Civil War era, having visited most of the major battlefields associated with that war. Seidel is known as a truly funny man, but one who used his humor to motivate students and staff while easing tensions that could otherwise have detracted from the educational process. In 1952, he married Pauline Bradford '52 (deceased in 1988) and they had three children Robin '80, Benjamin and David.

Nelson Lynch '58 has published his second novel, Murder, Wetlands and an Endangered Species, an environmental murder mystery set in Worcester County, MD.

Billye Parks Sarbanes '62 has been named to the SU Foundation Board of Directors.
